Cuba Charges

Prestige Fight Ends Debates

NEW YORK (UPI)—Richard Nixon and John Kennedy traded hard-hitting charges over Cuba Friday night in their fourth television debate.

Plants Have Tired Blood

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Sheriff James McCullough said Friday he can't find any law violation in using a stock of outdated blood for garden fertilizer.

An investigation was touched off when children playing around a house in nearby Eagleville discovered 516 pint bottles of blood. The sheriff said the blood had been brought home for his garden by a hospital employee after the blood became too old for use in transfusions.

Congo Help

Belgians Defy Dag

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Belgium has rejected a demand by United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that all direct Belgian aid to the Congo be discontinued and about 1,800 Belgian civilian technicians still working there be recalled, a government source said Friday.

The secretary-general insisted that all technical assistance to the Congo should come through the UN, which also would select technicians to be sent there.

Diefenbaker Hint

Soon Have Start Of Own Sub Fleet

MONTREAL (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker last night ruled out the possibility of Canada acquiring a nuclear submarine but indicated that this country might soon have the beginnings of a submarine fleet.

Diefenbaker told the joint convention of Navy Leagues that Canada's present reliance on other navies for submarines "cannot continue indefinitely."

NIKITA'S BOAST

He referred to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's boast yesterday that Russia had nuclear-powered missile-firing subs and said they presented a threat to North America equally as great as the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"The question of providing needed submarines for the Canadian navy must receive consideration," he said. "While the ideal submarine for offensive and defensive purposes is the nuclear submarine, its extremely high cost is beyond the reach of Canada."

TRAINING SUB

Canada recently acquired a submarine from the United States navy for the training of sailors on the west coast. Royal Navy submarines are used for training purposes by the Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic command.

U.K. Navy Gets A-Sub

BARROW - IN - FURNESS (Reuters)—The Royal Navy entered the nuclear age Friday as Queen Elizabeth II launched Dreadnought, Britain's first atomic-powered submarine.

The launching of the 3,500-ton vessel, equipped with a U.S. engine, was staged on Trafalgar Day, the 135th anniversary of Nelson's victory over Napoleon.

Apart from That Everything's Fine

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Not everyone was pleased with the resurfacing of State Street, a major artery leading from Pennsylvania's capitol to Harrisburg's eastern suburbs.

City officials complained that a state highway department crew paved right over manhole covers and water valve boxes.

LOSE FRIENDS

He said Kennedy's idea of seizing all Cuban assets in the U.S. and encouraging uprisings against Fidel Castro would "lose all our friends in Latin America" and be "an open invitation to Nikita Khrushchev to move into the area."

Kennedy countered that the U.S. economic embargo would not work. The U.S. would not be able to persuade other nations to join because its prestige is too low.

LED TO WAR

Nixon charged a Democratic error "led to the Korean war" and Kennedy's policy on the Formosa Straits could lead to "slicing off a part of the free world."

Kennedy replied his views on Quemoy-Matsu were the same as those of President Eisenhower and the issue was closed.

Launching an attack on U.S. prestige, he asked: "Which system, Communist or freedom, will triumph? That is the question, not the history of the last 10 years."

JUST AS HIGH

Nixon shot back that America's prestige will be "just as high as spokesmen for America allow it to be."

Kennedy replied: "I don't need Mr. Nixon to tell me what my responsibilities are as a citizen. I downgrade the leadership the country is getting—not the country."

To become a guardsman, six-year-old Robert Hancock, 1216 Pembroke, will have to make some extra height. He's shown, above, craning his neck for a good look at Coldstream Guards Sgt. Pete Smith, a flute player who stands 6-foot 3½, without bearskin.—(Colonist photo.)

Regimental Bands

Everyone Thrilled—By 8.40 on the Dot

By IAN STREET

The 150 waited just 10 minutes.

Then, as the last of the 5,033 patrons slipped into their seats in Memorial Arena last night the lights went out, the spotlight picked out three trumpeters as the first brazen notes rang out.

Scarlet-coated guardsmen in roof-scraping bearskins stiffened to attention and the order was given for them to march onto the floor of the arena, treated with a thick layer of sawdust frozen into the ice surface to give them a firm footing.

WAVE UPON WAVE Wave upon wave of applause greeted the regimental band of the Coldstream Guards as they made their entrance, followed a few minutes later by the skirling pipes and drums of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, 150 in all.

It was a superb show of pageantry, such as only the British can stage. The packed arena responded generously. It was a show Victoria almost missed.

Hugh Pickett, of Famous Artists, Vancouver, said get the bands to come here it was necessary for the booking agent to pay a guarantee rather than the usual percentage. As it turned out no one was the loser with last night's capacity crowd.

A few minutes after the scheduled 8.30 starting time, he was standing with arena manager Joe Dukowski watching latecomers packed in the foyer and edging up the stairs to their seats.

A worried little man, the company's American manager, bumped up to them. He was followed by a chap in civvies with an unmistakable military bearing, who said in clipped tones: "We'll start at 8.40 on the dot."

JAMMED SOLID "We've got to keep the orchestra happy," the company manager said. "They have been waiting already for 10 minutes."

"Surely it's more important to keep the customers happy," said Mr. Dukowski. "Every entrance is jammed solid. We'll have to wait . . ."

"8.40," said the military man and left.

The company manager grabbed Mr. Dukowski by the arm and said fervently, "The orchestra is happy, believe me. They're thrilled by your city."

They don't mind waiting 10 minutes.

At 8.40, just 10 minutes late, the show began.

The Famous Artists spokesman said the show was ever booked here.

Could Wreck UN, Says U.S.

Czechs Refuse to Pay 'Dirty' Costs in Congo

Whole Soviet Bloc May Balk at Bill

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Czechoslovakia said yesterday it will refuse to help pay the "dirty" costs of the UN Congo operation and the United States warned that if the rest of the Soviet bloc does the same, as expected, it could wreck the United Nations.

The Czech action indicated a nine-nation Communist payment boycott was in the making. Czech delegate Miroslav Navalak charged that UN money was being spent on "imperialist stooges for the suppression of the legitimate government" of pro-Russian Patrice Lumumba who was deposed as premier.

Although the Congo costs have not been made public, they are expected to range from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 for the first year alone. This is far beyond anything yet undertaken by the world organization and UN officials stressed it will require the full support of all 99 member states to meet the record obligation.

A Romanian delegate said he agreed with the Czech "assessment" of the situation.

MOST DEPLORABLE

U.S. delegate Albert Bender said the Czech statement was "one of the most deplorable" ever made in the UN.

Bender said the Czech delegate "insulted" the United Nations, particularly the majority which voted to send a peace force to the Congo.

The Communist bloc's threat of a payment boycott "may be considered to have the goal of the total destruction of the United Nations," Bender said.

SORDID AFFAIR

Czechoslovakia, whose diplomats were ousted from the Congo with the Russians by strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu, held the UN Congo action to be a sordid affair and the Czech delegate washed his hands of it.

A formal Soviet statement issued later in the day charged that the UN force had "sabotaged" the directives of the security council and warned that the situation in the Congo "is ever more worsening."

GROWING SCALE

The statement claimed there were "more and more reports that the return of an ever-growing scale of the Belgian colonialists and the arrival of the representatives of the Western powers under the UN flag is taking place in the Congo."

The statement did not say directly whether Russia would refuse to help pay the Congo bill, but observers believed it was designed to pave the way for announcement of such a stand.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Canadian cannery workers are being bought out by American interests and then left idle, an International Woodworkers of America official charged here.

The spokesman told the Kamloops Labor Council that "If you look on the shelves of stores at tins of fruit for growers, and you see one out of 20 is grown in British Columbia, then you're doing a lot better than I am."

Bonn Meeting Ejects Shouting Red Envoy

Red Readings Drove Wife to Desertion

LONDON (Reuters)—A divorce judge Friday rejected a cruelty petition from a woman who claimed her husband kept her awake at night reading the Communist newspaper The Daily Worker aloud to her.

"It is possible he was something of a bore, but boredom has not yet been recognized as a ground for divorce," the judge said.

But he granted a decree nisi—effective three months from now—to husband Leslie Tanner on grounds of desertion. Wife Sheila left him five years ago.

Astronauts Space-Bound Next Year, U.S. Says

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—The American project Mercury astronauts are scheduled to make their first flights in a rocket early in 1961, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Friday.

The first flights will be made using a Redstone missile booster, the NASA said.

In the Redstone flights, the astronauts will not go into orbit. They will be shot into the atmosphere, however, coming down at sea.

Firemen Vs. City

Burberry Battle Isn't Yet Ended

The Burberry coat battle is still going on.

City council finance committee earlier this year discussed what it would do about a cancellation board's ruling that every city fireman must be provided with a Burberry once every eight years.

Without funds in the budget for coats, the committee interpreted the ruling as meaning an initial issue of coats must be provided some time in the next eight years and recommended purchase of three this year for inspectors.

The firemen's union wrote this week that firemen consider this interpretation perhaps legally correct but not morally correct.

The letter also intimated firemen don't like City Manager C. C. Wyatt's suggestion that they pay part of the cost of the coats and keep them on leaving the force, so the de-

Five Years Thief's Sentence

Five years in the penitentiary was the sentence handed down yesterday in Supreme Court here to Grant Shaver, no fixed address, convicted earlier by a jury of breaking, entering and theft.

Amount involved was about $90 in coins, stolen from coin boxes from laundry machines and a cigarette vending machine which were taken from the Sparkle Bright Launderette, 2584 Quadra, last July 12.

Sentence was passed by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane, who had before him Shaver's lengthy criminal record. Lloyd G. McKenzie appeared for the crown, assisted by George MacMinn, and defence counsel was David Hummel.

Handle With Care

BRITISH reluctance to entertain the American proposal to arm Atlantic alliance nations with nuclear weapons is understandable for a number of reasons. Firstly, and mainly, such action would undoubtedly result in an immediate retaliatory move by the U.S.S.R., most likely to take the course of similarly arming all Communist countries.

Secondly, the suggestion could be viewed by the Soviet as a threat to her security at the very time when Britain's major intention is to do everything in her power to lesson world tension and bring about more cordial international relationships.

A third reason why such a plan should be handled with care is the obvious difficulties involved in selecting which of the 15 NATO nations should be armed. In this regard the over-all military needs may have to play second fiddle to internal politics, jealousies and suspicions. It is, for instance, hard to imagine France—who is busy preparing her own personal nuclear strike force—welcoming the distribution of nuclear missiles to West Germany. It is inconceivable that General de Gaulle, who lives with the history of France, could ever eliminate the inherent mistrust that exists between the two countries.

A similar condition could prevail between Turkey and Greece whose dealings with each other have never been overly friendly. Also to be considered is what effect the plan would have on non-NATO areas bordering on the Atlantic alliance territories or within range of the proposed nuclear missiles.

If East-West relations worsen, however, it may be the only course left to NATO to follow. But until every possible attempt to reach a peaceful settlement of differences has failed it should not be considered.

Cost Inquiry Next?

DEAN S. N. F. CHANT of the University of British Columbia, observing the proprieties, has not disclosed or even hinted at the contents of the voluminous report which he says will be in the hands of the government next week. However, by saying that it recommends extensive changes in the curriculum of British Columbia schools he arouses impatience for its release to the public.

Probably no royal commission report on public affairs has been awaited with more interest than that of the Chant examination of what the children of this province are taught, and how they are taught. This is a matter which affects and concerns every household where there are school-age children; but more than that it deeply concerns all employers of the output of the B.C. education system. The commission was appointed largely because of the dissatisfaction which they and institutions of higher education had voiced.

The terms of reference of the Chant commission, however, do not include the question of finance, so that the public need not expect when the report is released to find in it any proposals as to how the problem of meeting the mounting cost of education might be solved.

That would have to be the subject of a separate investigation; and in view of the acute distress felt in many quarters over the heavy impact of local taxes for school purposes a re-examination of the distribution of costs should be undertaken with little delay as possible. There has not been an independent survey since the Cameron Commission reported just after the Second World War.

It may be that the government has been staying action on an inquiry into financial issues until after receipt and consideration of the Chant Commission recommendations, which could have some bearing on the overall cost of education, without going into how it should be borne. If that turns out to be the government's intention the taxpayers and especially the municipal councils will be greatly relieved.

The protest defeat of school building bylaws in various parts of the province should show the government that there is much dissatisfaction with the present cost-sharing formula.

He Speaks for Himself

MR. A. DeB. McPHILLIPS must know very little about his Victoria constituency if he thinks that unemployment is a matter of small concern here. He may never have met anyone who is out of a job, although the unemployed are not hard to find, but as the local MP he should know the situation better than apparently he does.

Nor does he reflect the opinion of his party or the federal government to which he is pledged. It is a measure of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's concern, for instance, that he proposes a special conference of labor and industrial leaders to try to brighten the national unemployment picture. The extension of winter works programs is another indication of the Conservative government's anxiety to do all it can to ameliorate the ills of the workless.

It is true as Mr. McPhillips says that the national unemployment picture as frequently projected is distorted. It will remain so until some reliable formula can be devised to offset the present conflicting estimates by separate agencies having different aims in mind. It is the discrepancies between records of those seeking work, those drawing insurance, and other forms of statistics, that make a conclusive figure difficult to arrive at.

It is equally a fact that many people appear to be using the unemployment insurance scheme merely to do a little work and then laze on its benefits; that many women are ostensibly out of work but have gainfully employed husbands; and that some pensioners may be adapting both ends to their own advantage.

None of this negates the real problem of the genuine out-of-work, of whom even here there are more than should be comfortably accepted. Nor does the national ratio of unemployed to the total work force—despite the fact that it is not calamitous—warrant any complacency nor is it of any help to dismiss the subject as of no great importance.

Mr. McPhillips does not speak for either his party or the government he supports when he appears to make light of the problem as it affects his own constituency. His colleagues at Ottawa exhibit a more realistic attitude, well knowing that unemployment cannot be reduced by sticking one's head in the sand and ignoring it.

Interpreting the News

Khrushchev's Home Troubles

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

AFTER his shoe-thumping holiday at the United Nations, Nikita Khrushchev has gone back to Moscow and a round of less demonstrative debates on the home front.

There is a tantalizing gap in Western knowledge of the issues, the balance of forces and even the subject matter under discussion in the Kremlin committee rooms but a certain amount of evidence is at hand.

It is no longer a secret that the Soviet premier is up against a steady stream of complaints from Communist China that he has neglected chapter and verse of Marxist theory and is pursuing undesirably flexible policies in international affairs.

The Chinese view is presumed to have some backing among party theoreticians in Russia itself, although its strength is unknown. And there is a growing suspicion that Russian criticism of Khrushchev's tactics also extends into the realm of domestic affairs.

To frustrated Westerners, the whole affair is rather like listening to one side of a telephone conversation. Pravda and other official journals frequently publish lengthy denunciations of the premier's opponents but the critical voices remain unheard.

The general nature of the argument is hinted at by one or two recent additions to the substantial Russian vocabulary of abusive epithets.

The new official targets include "dogmatists," and "factionalists." While communist jargon occasionally endows a word with special meaning, the context here is reasonably clear.

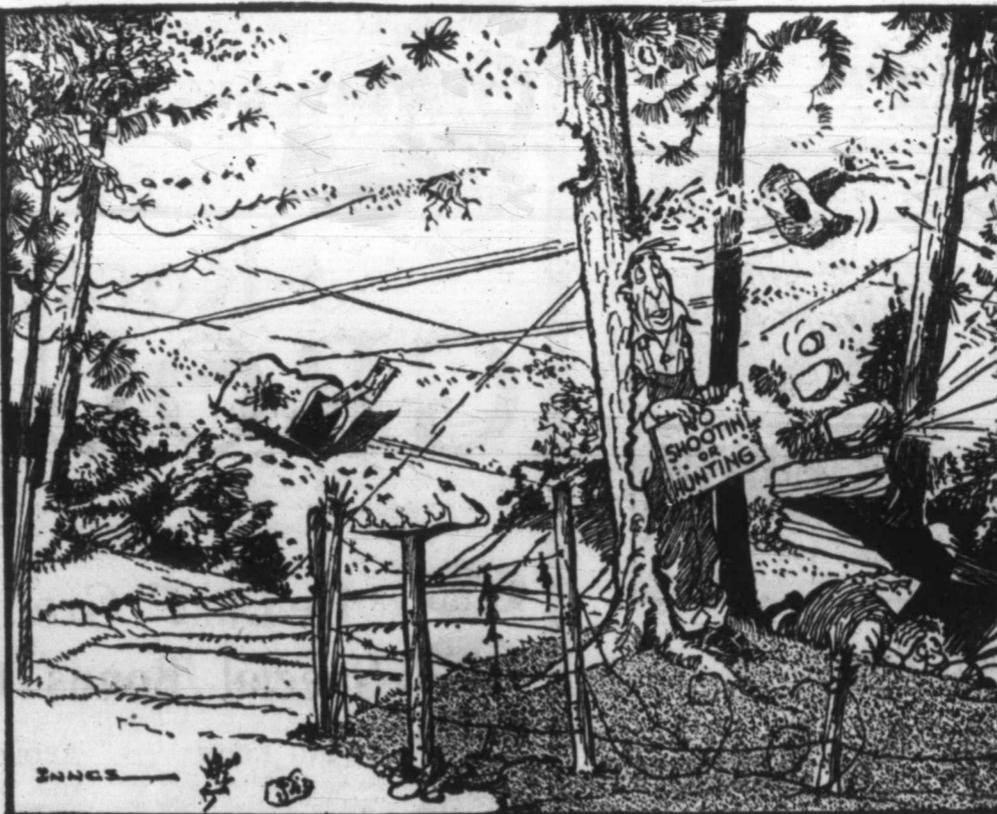

"Dogmatists" are inclined to over-stress ideological matters, such as the original Karl Marx concept of the inevitability of war between the capitalist and communist states, at the expense of day-to-day diplomacy, which may well include espousal of Khrushchev's cherished peaceful co-existence.

"Factionalists" are simply people who persist in heretical views after the Khrushchev-dominated Presidium of the Soviet Union has laid down official policy.

There is a surface resemblance to the plight of Hugh Gaitskell in his efforts to bring discipline to the unruly ranks of the British Labor party and adapt its battle cries to the events of the 1960s.

But the parallel cannot be carried too far. Win or lose, Gaitskell is scarcely in a position to affect the world's chances of survival for some time to come.

On the other hand, win or lose, Khrushchev stands little chance of spending his declining years in the serenity of Britain's House of Lords.

"If the Russians only knew what lousy shots we are, we'd have a hot war on our hands."

Mixed Multitude

The African Federation

THE governments of the United Kingdom, Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia, Nyasaland and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland will meet in London later this year to review the constitution of the federation. As a guide to the joint conference an advisory commission under Viscount Monckton of Brenchley has submitted recommendations for certain changes to be embodied in the future administration of the three component member states.

At present the federation contains a multitude of political parties representing all divisions of opinion, both black and white. They range from parties embracing both races dedicated to the policy of partnership, to outright African nationalist or European supremacy parties, whose various aims range from maintaining the present system, partition on a racial basis, to the outright breaking up of the federation.

Two of the 19 main parties are organized on a territorial as well as federal basis. The major parties are as follows:

Federal

United Federal Party—The present governing party led by Sir Roy Welensky. The main points of policy are: To build a strong and prosperous state which will remain a Commonwealth bastion in central Africa, imbued with the British traditions of justice, freedom, and loyalty to the Crown; to ensure that the federal territorial governments are retained for all time in the hands of civilized, responsible people; to obtain full membership of the Commonwealth in the shortest possible time; with this end in view, to maintain Southern Rhodesia's present status and rights within the federation and to insist on the removal of the remaining reservations in the constitution affecting Southern Rhodesia; and to press for an improved status in both Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland with a view to the establishment of systems of responsible government. They say if the government will not do it, the industry itself is not coming within miles of the target set by the Borden Commission.

Federal Dominion Party—Leader, Mr. Winston Field. The party, which has eight seats in the Federal House, continues to support and advocate a central African alliance founded on an economic basis. This envisages dominion of Southern Rhodesia and the party's most densely populated by-Europeans in which European interests and leadership would predominate. There would be satellite black states in the rest of Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Southern Rhodesia

United Federal Party—Leader, Sir Edgar Whitehead. The party holds 17 seats in Parliament where it governs. The principles are the same as those of the federal party.

Dominion Party—Leader, Mr. W. J. Harper. The party pursues a policy of "Southern Rhodesia first" and strongly favors retention of the land apportionment act.

Central Africa Party—Leader, Mr. Ralph Palmer. Aims at putting an end to all racial discrimination, at establishing freedom and justice, and ensuring security and progress for all people. The party is in a state of flux after the resignation of Mr. Garfield Todd and other leaders.

Progressive Party—A newcomer to the scene with a multiracial organization and a policy of equality of opportunity, placing the emphasis on individuals regardless of color. At present governed by an ad hoc committee.

National Democratic Party—Leader, Mr. Leopold Takwira, the party's policy is "one man one vote," removing all forms of oppression. It does not believe that a small minority is better able to govern than a majority.

Southern Rhodesia Party—Leader,

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

Montreal they will be able to finance the pipeline.

But it would be political suicide for the Tories in Quebec if they were to foist a gas price increase on that province. So the cabinet is approaching this issue most gingerly. For months it has had the National Energy Board bringing the voluminous statistics of the Borden Commission up to date. This job has just been completed, but now, one infers, the cabinet has asked the NEB for further information and guidance.

So Imperial Oil has set out to shoot the pipeline down. Its ammunition is figures, arguments and the implication that the pipeline boosters, a group of independent oil producers in Alberta, are dishonestly distorting the facts.

Far from being able to deliver Canadian crude to Montreal at prices competitive with those of imported Venezuelan crude, say Imperial vice-presidents J. A. Cogan and Trevor Moore, the pipeline would mean substantially higher prices to the Quebec consumer. If the entire cost were funnelled onto the motorist, they say, Quebec gasoline would go up by 5 cents a gallon.

Cogan charges that the pipeline promoters, led by Home Oil's Bobbie Brown, use "misleading figures." Moore, the other Imperial vice-president, says the pipeliners' real interest is in the profits they expect to make out of the pipeline. Both say the amount of government control of the industry would mean "a semi-nationalized petroleum industry."

Canada will have a $415,000 deficit in oil transactions this year, importing $540,000,000 of crude and products, mainly from Venezuela, and exporting $125,000,000 worth of crude to the States. This is a potent argument for the pipeline. However, the Imperial VPs say if their company cuts its imports it will lose export sales at higher per-barrel prices to a refinery in the Seattle, Wash., area, this sale being conditional upon Imperial buying oil from the refinery's Venezuelan affiliate.

Rather than sell Quebec motorists down the pipeline, the government would be smart to put up a counter-plan equally appealing to national pride: that Quebec and the Maritimes be held in reserve as eventual markets for Arctic oil. The vision, you know.

The Packard

Narrow Interests

By GREGORY CLARK

OPPOSITE a bus stop where I occasionally catch the bus there is a fine old house, a mansion, with spacious grounds and gardens that have not yet been surrendered to the engulfing city and developed, as they say, into blocks of one-and-a-half-room apartments—another way of saying the tenements of 1970.

Features of the grounds are the several beautiful trees that adorn the neighborhood. They are trees planted many years ago and now in their advanced maturity. Most of them are exotics, imported from abroad. There is a European mountain ash, resplendent in white in spring and glowing scarlet in autumn; a Crimean linden;

Dr. A. Palley, MP, who broke away from the Dominion Party last year. The party aims at serving the "people of Southern Rhodesia within Southern Rhodesia," and supports the return of many responsibilities from federal to colony's control.

New Rhodesia Party—Newly formed under Mr. Maurice Fisher, the party advocates dominion status within the Commonwealth. It is also pledged to give every assistance in freeing Northern Rhodesia from colonial rule.

Confederate Party—Recently revived, the party is opposed to any form of racial integration, and advocates the colony's joining with South Africa. Leader, Mr. Stanley Gurland.

Northern Rhodesia

United Federal Party—Leader, Mr. John Roberts. The same principles as the federal party.

Central African Party—Leader, Sir John Moffat. The party aims at abolishing all racial discrimination.

Federal Dominion Party—Supports central African alliance plan. Led by Mr. G. F. M. Van Eden.

(Copyright: Canada Wide)

African National Congress—Led by Mr. Harry Nikumbula, the party is vigorously opposed to federation and seeks a democratic constitution based on acceptance of adult universal franchise on the principle of "one man one vote."

United National Independence Party—Leader, Mr. Kenneth Kaunda. The party seeks to break up the federation by lawful means, and if that fails, by taking the matter to the United Nations.

Nyasaland

United Federal Party—Led by Mr. A. C. W. Dixon, its principles are the same as those of the federal party.

Central African Party—Same principles as other branches. Led by Mr. C. R. Kumbikano.

Malawi Congress Party—Led by Dr. Hastings Banda, the party aims at achieving self-government for Nyasaland and secession from the federation. It is the strongest party in Nyasaland.

Congress Liberation Party—Led by Mr. T. D. T. Banda, it believes in ties with the federation.

Too-Long Campaign

Whole World Stands Still

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WITH more than two weeks of the campaign still to run, one thing is abundantly clear: some way must be found in the interest of national sanity and America's position as leader of the free world to restrict the length of these presidential contests.

There is good reason to believe that a great many people have already had enough. Nothing that they hear in the closing weeks, short of some egregious blunder by one candidate or the other, is likely to make much difference. And this goes for the undecideds, many of whom may not make up their minds until they walk into the polling booth regardless of how much time they have for reflection.

This reporter has talked with small-business men, ranchers, and farmers in Montana, California and Arizona, and whatever their political preference, they have one wish in common and that is that the campaign should come to an end. Going on for nine to 10 weeks it has an increasingly unsettling effect. The business of the nation and the world seems to stand still while the conflict grows louder and angrier.

Privately in the entourage of both candidates the curse of the prolonged campaign, with the country crisscrossed over and over again, is freely discussed. In one of his stops in the west on his first long tour just after Labor Day Senator Kennedy remarked feelingly toward the close of a 14-hour grind, "I can't imagine why Adlai Stevenson ever thought that he wanted to do this for a third time."

On the last day of his California swing Vice-President Nixon told his audiences that he had wakened at four in the morning, which would have been eight o'clock by the time by which he normally lives in Washington. Unable to sleep he left his hotel and went out to an all-night stand to buy a hamburger. This meant that he spent a 20-hour day of almost ceaseless activity, ending with his arrival in Phoenix after midnight and an attempt to speak to an airport crowd in the rain through a faulty loudspeaker system.

This kind of trial by never-ending fatigue and strain is more than the human frame can endure. There should be an opportunity, immediately after this contest has ended, to get the two parties to put an agreed limit on the length of future campaigns. Since each man will have done his utmost, it will not be possible to say of the loser that if only he had had another week or had travelled another 5,000 miles he might have won.

The British limit their national campaigns to three weeks from the day on which Parliament is dissolved or the government falls. Ours is a much bigger country. But with the use of television and the jet plane it should be possible in four weeks, or at the most five, to cover the country and insure that every interested citizen hears the message of both candidates.

So much of the motion crowded into the present 10 weeks is sheer waste. The conspicuous example is the airport rally. Most airports are five to 10 miles from the centre of town. If the organization works hard it is possible to get a crowd of a few thousands out to hear the candidate when he stops for an hour and a half in the course of a long and punishing day.

But he will be talking to the faithful and the converts, who have long since determined to vote for him. And while his presence and his oratory may fire them up to greater organizational effort, the benefit in this department is to say the least doubtful. If it takes that kind of shot in the arm to get the organization going it is not likely to be very effective in any event.

On Wrong Foot

Something seems to have gone wrong with the "Hyde Park corner" idea. It appears to be thought that socialism is the only subject to be discussed. Furthermore, since when did anyone have to get permission to speak there or to say what his subject might be, or that only one person may speak at a time? I certainly protest at the Socialists being given special rights and wish to point out that in Hyde Park a speaker simply comes along, gets on his box and sounds off on any subject under the sun, providing it is not disloyal or unlawful. He cares not whether another speaker is within six or 60 feet of him; indeed I have known one to plant his box (just out of "reach" of another) and both of them do their best to shout the other one down.

Never mind about socialism. Should I ever be bold as to hold forth I will speak on Mr. Gagliardi and his murderous 60-mile-an-hour highway speed. And why are not parents charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency if they permit their children to become destructive?

Why make laws and not enforce them? Why are lawyers permitted to call a witness or accused person a liar but the one so called is not permitted to call the lawyers a liar?

Yes, Mr. Editor, there are many other things beside socialism to speak about.

Chinese-Canadians

Congratulations on your prompt editorial condemnation of the petulant remarks of Magistrate Sutton concerning Chinese-Canadian youth.

As a newcomer to Victoria, I have been surprised and distressed by the attitude of many otherwise well-educated people toward the Chinese. I have heard the expression "Chinaman" used almost exclusively in referring to Chinese, and surely this form of expression belongs to the days of "the white man's burden" and not to the present.

My children, who in Toronto had many Chinese classmates and were taught one year by a very excellent Chinese teacher at their public school, also find this puzzling; one can only explain it by telling them that all adults do not always speak correctly: some say "ain't" because they have never been taught to do differently.

Work for Price Cuts Trade Unionists Told

Trade unionists would be better off if they worked towards a lower cost of living rather than higher wages and shorter hours, former Liberal immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill said yesterday.

"They should try to get the prices down so more people will buy their products and that will increase the number of jobs for them," he said.

Pickersgill Hits Tories

'Confession of Defeat'

A former Liberal cabinet minister yesterday laid much of the blame for unemployment on the federal government's "extraordinary mismanagement" of the nation's finances.

This mismanagement, said Newfoundland MP J. W. Pickersgill, had destroyed industry's confidence in the Canadian economy.

He charged "make work" projects were a confession of defeat and expansion of the national economy was the only way beat unemployment.

REAL REASON

"The real reason for unemployment is that our economy is not expanding at the same rate as the increase in our labor force," he said. "A government must provide the kind of climate in which industry feels investment—the kind of investment that will create employment—is justified."

Mr. Pickersgill was here to stump in Esquimalt-Saanich riding, vacant since the resignation of Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes.

JOHN D. RAPPED

"I feel modestly confident that we will win this seat," he said, criticizing Prime Minister Diefenbaker for not calling an immediate by-election "so that this very important riding should not be left without representation."

He refused to give opinions on such matters as the Chinese immigration racket and the Irene Rebrin deportation case "because these questions are still before the courts."

NEW DOCTRINE

Mr. Pickersgill said parliament should be called immediately to deal with unemployment and accused Mr. Diefenbaker of "a new constitutional doctrine" in announcing he had a plan to beat unemployment but could do nothing about it until Commons met.

"It's worth noting that Mr. Diefenbaker also said that unemployment had become a national problem but I see that your Victoria member (A. DeB. McPhillips) disagrees and says there's no problem," he said.

VERY AMUSING

Mr. Pickersgill said it was "really very amusing" to see Tory politicians blaming the Liberals for unemployment.

"Anyone who says unemployment was a problem of

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru warned Friday that "any push" to the left or right could transform Laos into another Congo.

Nehru said any attempt by either the Communist or Western blocs to press Laos into ending its neutrality could turn the countryside into a battleground.

He praised neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma for "a very fine job" in dealing with the different forces in Laos "pulling him in this or that direction."

Souvanna's middle-of-the-road regime is caught between pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas in the north of Laos and rightist rebels in the south.

Nehru said he hoped Souvanna would succeed in establishing peace and stability in his country. If he failed, a situation might develop similar to "what is happening in the Congo—it might even be worse."

Souvanna had made honest attempts to keep his country away from blocs and neutral in the cold war, but he was being "pushed about this way and that," Nehru said.

Recall Urged by Katanga

UN Aide 'Totally Inefficient'

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — President Moise Tshombe of Katanga province Friday demanded the immediate recall of the senior UN representative in Katanga, as well as part of his military staff.

Tshombe called Ian Berndsen "totally inefficient." He said Berndsen and his aides are working against the good of Katanga.

"I am deeply convinced it is impossible to work honestly with them," he said.

Austrian Cabinet Falls Over Pension Increase

VIENNA (Reuters) — The Austrian government headed by Premier Julius Raab resigned Friday.

The government fell after the two coalition parties, the right-wing People's party and the Socialists, failed to reach agreement on the next year's budget.

One of the main points of disagreement in week-long discussions was reported to have been the financing of a proposed increase in pensions.

Raab said the failure was despite "intense efforts by both government parties."

Under the constitution, the budget should have been put before Parliament by today.

The two coalition parties were expected immediately to enter negotiations for the formation of a new government.

Raab was reported not to be prepared to take over again the chancellorship, which he has held since 1953.

B.C. Lions, the odds-makers are saying, are going to be out of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union playdowns at about 10.45 this evening. There are few who believe the Lions are good enough to handle Calgary's vastly-improved Stampeders in this all-or-nothing game.

If this is to be true, and the chances are that it will be, means a serious setback for the Lions, who made the play-downs for the first time last season after wasting several seasons and tens of thousands of dollars trying to be good enough too soon.

The story of the Lions is a story of frustration. They have had ample time to make their big bank-roll count for more than it has, should by now be more of a power than they are. Because of the money they have had to spend, their planning has often been geared to the present rather than to the slow, sure building which is necessary for a new club.

It couldn't have been reasonably expected that the Lions would be able to make any serious challenge in their early years. Edmonton Eskimos had a dynasty going then and Winnipeg Blue Bombers were building up to one. But with the wealth they were able to command because of exceptional fan support, the Lions by now should have moved in on the Eskimos and be not too far away from the Bombers.

League standings show, however, that the Lions are not even close to Edmonton, slowly fading out the past two or three seasons, and that the Bombers are out of sight. After tonight, they could also show that the Lions are no better than the fourth best club in the WIFU, unable to win more than a third of their games in a season when there was no outstanding improvement made by their opposition.

All that can salvage this season for the Lions now would be a win tonight, another one next Saturday against Saskatchewan and then victory in the WIFU semi-finals. It's a most disappointing turn of events with so much more having been expected after Wayne Robinson's first season as coach finally brought that playoff spot.

Why the Lions haven't done better is a question which brings many answers. One hears in Vancouver from those who have covered the club for years that a big factor has been what they call Robinson's immaturity as a head coach.

It is said he hasn't made the most of his obvious talents because he has insisted on trying to tailor his players to his game instead of making the best of use of their various abilities. Robinson has, these observers say, judged too often on personal feelings without any consideration for the feelings of his players. This, it is claimed, has not only resulted in the lack of any real club spirit but has also cost the Lions the services of several players—Bill Jessup, Ed Vereb and Don Lord are three who were named—because they figured it just wasn't worth it to carry on in what is probably Canadian football's most-demanding regimen.

One could also point to the failure to find a quarterback of better than average ability and some unfortunate injuries but the above seems to make sense.

But while it seems that the Lions have at best marked time this season, there is also good reason to believe they are slowly coming up. They have won only four of 14 games but in many of their performances against the league's best one could easily find enough good to say they are only four or five players away from being close. If they can keep the best of what they have it shouldn't be too much longer.

On the plus side, the Lions have in Willie Fleming probably the best halfback in Canadian football. This season brought them in Nub Beamer, a rocking fullback who ranks with the best, and while Jim Walden has yet to prove he is the answer at quarterback, at least he has shown more potential than Randy Duncan.

There has been an even more notable gain in the Lions' still somewhat thin line of Canadian talent. Huge Mike Cacic, only 23, has become one of the best Canadian tackles; 21-year-old Jim Carphon shows real promise as an end; Robinson has in Roy Cameron and Neil Beaumont, both 19, two real prospects in the defence backfield; 22-year-old Vern Lofstrom, out much of the season with injuries, is going to be a fine fullback, and Bruce Claridge has developed into a solid defensive player.

Each season now will bring the Lions one or more Canadians who have been gaining experience at American schools, such as Pat Claridge, star end for University of Washington, and Robinson is bound to discover that football players are people. The Lions should be ready for something serious in 1963, it isn't as bad as it might look.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Calgary Stampeders in that big one tonight, and Edmonton, Hamilton and Toronto in today's other football. In hockey, Winnipeg, Seattle and Calgary in the WHL and Montreal and Toronto in the NHL. Batting average to date: At bat 150, hits 111, percentage .740.

that when the meet was over coach Gary Taylor was considering splitting up his team next year to make the competition closer.

"This is the best over-all team we have ever had," Taylor said, and none of the 1,200 screaming students who jammed the Garden could argue with him. When the 16 events were over, Oak Bay had 76 points, Esquimalt was second with 16, and Belmont third with 14.

"We've got the edge because most of our team competes in the city clubs and swims all year round," he added. "Kids in the other schools swim for three months, and the last four also took part in the relay events. Ken Reece, Monty Holding, Brooke George, Gordon Detwiler and Stan Cameron won boys' events and all but Reece were on the winning relay team.

He was genuinely sorry the competition couldn't be closer, but he was happy over prospects in the B.C. championships Nov. 19. Bays won the provincial title in 1956, 57 and 58, and Taylor feels they have a chance to get it back.

It certainly looked like it last night. The Bays won the first five events and 14 of the 16. The girls' team won all its events, the boys' team all but two.

No swimmer was allowed to enter more than one individual event and one relay. No records are kept in the competition, but the standouts proved to be members of the sponsoring Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and Victoria Swimming "Y" Swimming Club.

Bart Heisterman, Sue Morgan, Tricia Holland, Linda Brown, Jane Wheaton and Nan Dufour won individual events, and the last four also took part in the relay events. Ken Reece, Monty Holding, Brooke George, Gordon Detwiler and Stan Cameron won boys' events and all but Reece were on the winning relay team.

Fast Action Sought On Access Problem

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood plans to lose no time in tackling the problem of public access to recreation areas within tree farm licence areas. He says he has already started working on the problem.

He approached Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston earlier in the week and asked Mr. Williston to co-operate by giving the access problem immediate attention. The two ministers will work together to seek an amicable solution which will likely see a forest-use integration policy developed.

The whole question has recently been bogged down because of inaction of a committee of deputy ministers — set up to make recommendations — to come to grips with the problem.

Part of the inaction was blamed on the fact that the committee chairman, deputy lands minister Ed Bassett, was one of the leading figures in Columbia River hydro negotiations at the time being.

Public Banned in Park

It is to be hoped the deputy ministers do get down to earth and tackle the pressing access problem. It is certainly shocking when one company, the Elk River Company, a subsidiary of the Scott Paper Company, has the use of a road running through British Columbia's Strathcona Park . . . and yet the park is not allowed access to that road.

That is the road to Gold River, and fabulous fishing grounds, accessible only to company employees and those with big yachts.

Still not settled, is the access problem to Vancouver Island's Nimpkish country, which is in process of being turned over to the Canadian Forest Products as a tree farm licence area. When Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston announced the granting of

Owes Property Outright

The two big firms the government will have to deal with in connection with this problem are the CPR, through its vast E & N land grants and the Elk River Timber Company, which owns outright the desired Buttle Lake property.

A meeting is to be held in a few weeks' time with CPR officials. That is one meeting that must not be delayed, because if the government doesn't take action to acquire the Forbidden Plateau properties, some big logging companies will . . . and then recreation value of the property would be all but destroyed.

In recent years it has become quite evident that the big timber companies, such as MacMillan and Bloedel and Powell River, B.C. Forest Products, Crown Zellerbach, have realized that recreational demands are becoming greater and greater.

They have gone so far as

Garden Notes

Hedging on Hedges

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Back in those pre-war days when you could get a willing and knowledgeable Chinese gardener to take over the more strenuous of the garden chores for a few dollars per week, it didn't matter very much if things were done the hard way.

Nowadays, when we have to do all the work with our own lily-white hands, it behooves us to collect and put to work every good labor-saving idea in gardening. I am thinking now not only of mechanical aids but also of finding out which plants can get along with a minimum of attention.

In the matter of hedges, what we want is something not too costly to buy in the first place—a plant which will make rapid growth yet which can get along without too much clipping and trimming.

Privet is certainly inexpensive to buy but I imagine most folks would be inclined to rule out this hedge because of the frequent clipping required. However, if you cut back a newly-planted privet hedge to little six-inch stubs, this will encourage plenty of shoots from low down near soil level. The hedge will not only be nice and thick right down to the ground, with none of the legginess often associated with privet, but the flow of sap will be distributed into more branches, thus reducing the rate of growth in each one.

Furthermore, if you do your clipping at the right times, twice a year will be enough to keep the hedge neat and presentable. Cut privet in June, before the new spring growth has hardened up and become woody, and again in mid-September. Most years very little growth is made after the middle of September, so the hedge stays neat all winter and until after new spring growth is well under way.

This system of trimming applies also to golden privet, lonicera and cotoneaster hedges.

Green beech needs only one trimming a year, as it makes all its growth in early summer—late July or early August is the best time.

Lawson's cypress and arborvitae need only one clipping, in June, and laurel in August. A closely-trimmed formal hedge of holly is best clipped lightly twice a year, in September and April, but with specimen holly trees I see no harm in delaying the pruning until December and combining the operation with the gathering of holly for Christmas decoration.

Any hedge, trimming is simplified if the hedge is kept wedge-shaped, narrow at the top and broader at the base. This makes a tidier-looking hedge, with less surface to attend to and has the advantage of allowing sun, air and rain to reach the lower branches. Without a flat, broad top, such a hedge is much less susceptible to damage from a fall of heavy, wet snow.

In selecting your type of hedge, always remember that you can't have it both ways. If you choose the fastest-growing kinds, they will need more frequent trimming; moreover, such plants are usually short-lived. The more permanent subjects will take quite a bit longer to reach an effective height but, the slower they grow, the less clipping will be required.

Return of Children's Hour

Television has done little for children except ruin their reading habits and corrupt their morals, but this year things are looking up, conceivably because FCC Chairman Frederick W. Ford reminded the broadcasters of their responsibilities toward children. This year NBC has a couple of good children's shows, Shirley Temple's and National Velvet Sunday night. CBS-TV next Friday and Saturday nights opens an even more promising series called Family Classics, a title so revoltingly wholesome I hope it doesn't drive people away.

Family Classics, a Talent Associates package will be produced by Bob Costello, who is a fisherman, photographer and animal trainer when he isn't producing TV shows. He was asked if Family Classics wasn't venturing dangerously close to Shirley Temple's shoreline: "No, not really," said Costello. "Her shows are in the second half when the emotion of the first half gets awfully cold and dim."

"If they're good, it'll work well for several reasons. If they're good, people won't want the stories to end too quickly. They may enjoy having a few hours to digest the material. Then children love suspense — even when it isn't a cliffhanger. Anyway it's interesting from the exposition point of view. Two hours affords area of the Grimm Brothers. We're branching out. Going for the more adventurous types, more excitement, more literary value. We'll be doing 'The Scarlet Pimpernel' and 'Vanity Fair.'

This is an exciting new idea because these classics will be done in two parts on successive nights. The two part idea has never worked too well on television, mostly because you usually have to wait a week for the second half when the emotion of the first half gets awfully cold and dim.

"If they're good, it'll work well for several reasons. If they're good, people won't want the stories to end too quickly. They may enjoy having a few hours to digest the material. Then children love suspense — even when it isn't a cliffhanger. Anyway it's interesting from the exposition point of view. Two hours affords better explanation and exploration of the property — certainly of a property like 'Vanity Fair.'

There will be six family classics — remember that's twelve hours of television — and they'll be live, that all but forgotten dramatic form. The four already selected are: "The Scarlet Pimpernel," "The Three Musketeers," "Les Misérables" and "Vanity Fair." Costello is still searching for the last two.

"In doing these things live on television, we have to reach for other values than the movies. We can't disguise a thin story by a chase across the plains or up the castle stairs. Also, we're trying to get a balance so it doesn't look like Swordplay Theatre. There's no blood and gore in this series except when the guillotine drops. I like doing live television. I think film is frozen."

Hollywood Today

Songless Fisher Is Busy

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Eddie Fisher can't seem to make up his mind whether he should sing, or sign papers, as Elizabeth Taylor's manager. Looking after Liz is a full-time job. But I note that Eddie has been talking to Columbia about starring himself in "The Russ Columbo Story."

Doris Day, whom I've always admired as a comedy or musical movie star, gives the best performance of her career as the terrified but glamorous wealthy housewife in "Midnight Lace." In the elevator scene where she thinks she is trapped by the murderer, Doris actually fainted afterward from fright.

Vivien Leigh is insisting on a house on the Appian Way, while she makes "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," in Rome.

William Holden, angry at the stories that have him refusing to make movies in Hollywood, writes, "Offer me a good script, and I'll do it anywhere." However, Bill does reside in tax-happy Switzerland.

Howard Lee, Gene Tierney's husband, gave her a newly furnished room for her home in Connecticut — "It was his wedding present to me and my mother," Gene told me. I doubt that Gene will be in Connecticut very much now that her career has started up again in Hollywood.

Otto Preminger feels he pulled a coup, buying the book, "The Side of the Angels," from publisher Ivan Obolensky a month before its publication. The novel, by Hollywood writer Alexander Fedoroff, is "the sexiest book I ever read," says Preminger. Sal Mineo wants to play "Tiger" Rizzuto, and Natalie Wood is interested in the feminine lead.

It's a good thing for her that Simone Signoret is in demand in the United States. The French government has put Simone on a black list for signing a petition to stop the French fighting in Algeria. And, with the government controlling radio, TV, subsidizing films and plays, this could spell lean pickings for Simone. But she'll be coming to the U.S. soon to make a movie for Robert Aldrich, to be followed by "The Devil in Bucks County" for producer Jimmy Woolf, at Warners.

Actor Brad Dillman, who comes from a wealthy family in San Francisco, reveals that "Having come from a well-heeled family didn't hurt my chances of becoming a successful actor." But the three years he half starved working as a night clerk in a New York hotel "did help me become a better actor!"

'Peaceful' Subversion Red Goal

REGINA (CP) — A former in Africa, Latin America and Communist newsman says the only way to fight Communism is to understand it, then provide answers to it.

Douglas Hyde, former news editor of the London Communist Daily Worker, who rebelled against Communism 12 years ago said in an interview Friday Communist strategy is based on the assumption its biggest hope for the future lies in an independent journalism, he dismissed the so-called nationalist, Mr. Hyde said his interest in Communism and Moscow as "wishful thinking."

And, commenting on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's antics at the recent United Nations session, he said the West's reaction to the Red Leader's behavior is quite different to that of the unsophisticated peoples.

Cuba, Mr. Hyde said, has reached the point of political return.

Medical Probe Urged Into Traffic Death Toll

REGINA (CP) — Extensive medical research into the causes of highway traffic deaths is favored by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons.

A national foundation for such study was urged in a report to the college's annual convention Thursday by Dr. C. H. Andrews of Prince Albert, head of the college's traffic safety division.

Such a foundation would have accidents investigated thoroughly by experts. Engineers would study the highway for defects and others would check the car and try to find out from the driver's service station what the mechanical shape of the car had been. The driver's physical and psychological state also would be probed.

"Then we'd know what the loopholes are in traffic safety and would be able to take measures to plug them," Dr. Andrews said.

Rival All Lies Mayor's Reply

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Sarto Fournier has replied last night to charges from ex-mayor Jean Drapeau that he has no manners.

Senator Fournier told a rally he does not have to be taught manners by Mr. Drapeau, "a man who is allergic to the truth and who conjugates the verb 'to lie' by his every word and his every action."

VOTE MONDAY

The two men are regarded as the leading candidates among six for the mayoralty in next Monday's municipal election.

"Mr. Drapeau says I made tatas to the television cameras when I was dancing with the Queen during the Royal Visit.

PROUD REPLY

"What happened was that Her Majesty saw two children watching us as we danced and asked me who they were. I proudly answered they were my two daughters and waved to them."

Senator Fournier asked: "Who is this man who presumes to defend the Queen? What respect did he show for the Royal Family during the war with his anti-conscription activities?"

VENAFRO, Italy (UPI) — Police are holding an irate husband who dangled his nude wife down a well by a rope for seven hours.

Farmers rescued the woman. The unidentified husband said he was punishing her. He said he found her with a lover.

The wife underwent hospital treatment for exposure.

Injured Woman Lies in Wreck Five Hours Awaiting Rescue

Truck Driver Discovers Car Over Embankment

LADYSMITH — A seriously injured 36-year-old Ladysmith woman lay semi-conscious on the seat of her battered car for nearly five hours early yesterday before a passing trucker realized there had been an accident and came to her aid.

In only fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria last night was Mrs. A. E. Stubbington, a mother of four, whose late model sedan was wrecked after it crashed into a bridge abutment a short distance north of here.

Mrs. Stubbington is reported suffering from severe internal injuries, a fractured leg and a broken pelvis.

Her body was slumped across the front seat of the car when she was found and she was conscious, but unable to reach the horn or summon help.

FIVE HOURS

Police believe she lay helpless in the torn vehicle from shortly after midnight to nearly 6 a.m.

Among the first on the scene after the crash was discovered by an alert but so-far-unidentified produce-truck driver was Mrs. Margaret Simila.

TERrible PAIN

"I talked to her and all she was concerned with were the car and her family," Mrs. Simila said later. "She must have been in terrible pain."

At one point Mrs. Simila heard the injured woman say, "poor Ed, he'll be so upset about his car."

HIT ABUTMENT

Police said Mrs. Stubbington was driving north when her car apparently swerved across the Trans-Canada Highway, struck the bridge abutment and slid down an embankment.

They said there was no indication of the cause of the accident.

Mrs. Stubbington was first rushed to Ladysmith General Hospital and later brought to Victoria.

Polio Hits 19 More

OTTAWA (UPI) — Nineteen new cases of polio were listed in Canada during the week ended Oct. 15 to bring the total for the year to date to 647, the health department said Friday.

This compared with 71 cases during the same week last year for a total of 1,593. The 58 deaths this year compared to 151 over the same period last year.

Quebec, which had the most cases last year, led again with 169, compared to 153 in B.C. in 1950 to 78,000 in 1959.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The mail, will be going through to Santiago, Chile, but a bit late—15 years.

The mail—322 bags of it—turned up when a wrecking crew broke into a sealed compartment on the wartime Liberty Ship John Bidwell, being broken up for scrap.

The bags will be passed on intact.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The U.S. Air Force successfully fired an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile on a planned 7,000-mile flight over the Atlantic Ocean early today. The rocket hit target in one of the mighty war rocket's longest flights to date.

The 82-foot rocket, carrying a slender nose cone loaded with test instruments, rose smoothly into thick clouds hanging over the launching area.

The Atlas, mightiest war-ready U.S. weapon aimed its nose and a dummy warhead at a watery target in the South Atlantic near Ascension Island, off the west coast of Africa.

Air force officials reported the Atlas hit target in one of the mighty war rocket's longest flights to date.

The rocket was similar to an Atlas which carried three "space mice," Sally, Amy and Moe, on a trip 5,000 miles over the Atlantic nine days ago.

Tow Truck Hit On Sooke Road, Brothers Crushed

Crushed between a tow-truck and another vehicle, two Colwood brothers were killed early yesterday in an accident on the Sooke Road in Dewdney Flats.

Jack LeRoy Cameron, 32, 2253 Sooke Road, died instantly; his brother Tom, 34, lived only long enough to speak about his brother.

William John Stewart, 47, of Kemp Lake Road, Sooke, was charged in Colwood court yesterday afternoon with causing the death of the two men by criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

He was remanded for a preliminary hearing, date for which has not yet been set.

Stewart's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, 47, suffered head injuries in the crash, and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where her condition yesterday was "fairly good."

Jack, married and father of three children, was manager of a new service station on Sooke Road. Tom, also married and with four children, was an independent logger who worked with his brother on a part-time basis.

FORCED TO DITCH

Police said Gerald Van Humebeck of Sooke had been driving homeward when he said he was forced into a ditch by bright headlights of an approaching car at the Dewdney flats.

A few minutes later his friend Tom Cameron came by, driving his own car. He called his brother to bring out the tow truck and the Camerons pulled the car from the ditch.

HIT TRUCK

While the Cameron brothers were kneeling between the two vehicles as they coupled them together for the tow, the Stewart car glanced off the fender of Tom Cameron's car, then crashed into the front of the truck.

The heavy truck was driven backward, pinning the brothers between it and the other car.

LOOK OUT

Van Humebeck said later he saw the other car coming, and had time only to yell "Look out!" and jump himself, when it struck. Going to the Camerons, he saw that Jack was dead, and heard Tom ask "How's my brother?" before collapsing.

The Camerons, both born in Saskatoon, had spent some years in the Peace River district of Alberta before coming to Victoria during the war years. Tom served in the army.

PARENTS, BROTHERS

They are survived by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William LeRoy Cameron, 669 Kelly; one brother, Harry, 3134 Metchosin, and three sisters: Mrs. Arthur O. Ramsfield (Jean), 72 Crease; Mrs. C. Arnold Ramsfield (Monty), 724 Kelly; Miss Kathlene Cameron, in Portland, Ore.

Jack is survived by his widow, Shirley, and three children, Terry, 8; Debra, 6 and Russell, 2. Surviving Tom are his widow Nora, and four children: Carol, 11; Jody, 9; Mark, 5, and Melanie, 3.

First Aid Class Set

A special morning class in senior first aid will be held at St. John Ambulance headquarters, 941 Pandora, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Thursday.

Pensioners Pay Premium For Eating in Victoria

LONG PLAY: Early morning listeners to an American radio station heard here were somewhat taken aback the other day when the needle stuck on a record—and wasn't changed for 45 minutes.

Night worker Shawn Erb, who identified the station as KOVO in Provo, Utah, said no attempt was made to explain to listeners what had happened.

VICTORIA HAS A PRICE: City pensioners and others on low incomes can't buy as much food for their dollar as their counterparts in Vancouver.

Bureau of statistics, which keeps a three-monthly check on low-priced foodstuffs in Victoria and Vancouver, says that the latest surveys show prices are 7.6 per cent higher here than on the mainland.

The price gap has widened by almost one per cent since February but officials believe there will be a drop during the coming months.

DOUBTFUL PREDICTION: Former Liberal cabinet minister Jack Pickersgill refused to make any prediction as to the outcome of the next federal election when asked by reporters here yesterday.

"I always think that for a politician to make predictions is the same sort of thing as a reporter going out to the Indian reservation and asking the chief how bad the winter is going to be," he said.

ECONOMY CAMPAIGN: Certain people who always read the fine print have been wondering why their Community Chest receipt cards are 7.6 per cent higher here than on the mainland.

"I always think that for a politician to make predictions is the same sort of thing as a reporter going out to the Indian reservation and asking the chief how bad the winter is going to be," he said.

COMPREHENSIVE COVER-

AGE: Second-hand dealer Bill Scott will trapse off to the speakers' corner in Beacon Hill Park on Sunday afternoon well prepared for any eventualities.

He's bought an umbrella to ward off both the seagulls and the raindrops when he speaks on "dangerous thoughts of a lighthouse philosopher."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is my son's mother-in-law. She phones me almost every day to register a complaint against my son.

The petty things she picks on make me tired. For example, this morning she said, "Denny didn't water the plants and they are drying out some thing terrible." Then she added, "And he failed to leave the trash can out last night, too."

I feel like telling her to mind her own business and to stop calling me about such nonsense, but I'm afraid she'll take it out on my son in some way.

The truth is, his wife is so lazy she expects him to do every little thing for her. Do you think I ought to continue to listen to her gripes and say nothing. I've tolerated her for two years and I'm fed up.—FAINTHEARTED.

Dear Faint: I see no reason for you to be a human receptacle for whatever this foolish woman wants to pitch your way.

The next time she calls to bug you say, "Look—when you call to tell me my son forgot to water the plants or neglected to leave the trash cans out, my heart just aches for that sweet, wonderful daughter of yours. It depresses me that she didn't marry a man who was worthy of her. Please do me a favor and don't give me any more sad stories."

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl of 17 who used to go steady with a fellow who lives about 45 miles from here.

In March he quit me for no good reason and I cried myself

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY

Now that the evenings are lengthening, children sensitive to twilight and to dark, will make their way homeward for the last activities of the day.

Why not plan to join them in a strictly family hour? The front door closed, TV and radio silent, the telephone muffled—children, father and mother have an opportunity to draw closer to each other.

If your reaction to this suggestion is "What on earth could our family do together?" it only shows how badly your home is in need of such a venture!

Begin planning with the co-operation of both parents. This is a "must."

It may mean that father will have to postpone the reading of his evening paper, or that mother's Home and School telephoning will be left over.

These small sacrifices you will never regret.

The first few evenings will need careful planning so that they are enjoyable.

Later, if the children are old enough, each one might arrange an evening. And don't expect too much.

Why not begin with something like the old-fashioned treats of making candy or popping corn? Judge your success by the fun you all have!

Presently you can slip into something more cultural.

Cooking, of course, has many variations.

Games offer variety, too. Checkers and even chess can be taught to quite young children, will usually interest father, and will last over the years.

WHY THE CHANCELLOR'S WOOLSAK

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer sits on a woolsack for a good, historic reason. It is a tribute, to recall that British wool virtually paid for the laws of freedom and the institution of Parliament: wool was already such a dominant part of England's economy that levies on it footed almost the entire bill for the establishment of the first House of Commons.

Both fresh and canned fish can be made into a wide variety of delectable dishes for autumn meals. Salmon, the most popular of B.C. fish makes a tasty pie and is the main ingredients for flavorful croquettes.

Salmon Pie

One pound (2 - 7% ounce cans) canned salmon, 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon snipped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 cup salmon liquid plus milk.

Drain and flake the salmon, crushing the bones and discarding the dark skin. Add the bread crumbs, onion, salt, parsley, lemon juice and garlic salt. Add the eggs and mix well. To the salmon liquid add enough milk to make 1 cup of liquid. Add to salmon mixture. Bake in a greased 8-inch pie pan for 45 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 6 croquettes (3/4 cup each).

Oysters à LA KING

1/2 pints oysters, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1/4 cup diced green pepper, 1/4 pound mushrooms, sliced; 1 tablespoon chopped pimento, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon Worcester sauce, drop of Tabasco sauce, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, toast points.

Simmer oysters in their own liquid until their edges begin to ruffle. Drain thoroughly; save 1/4 cup liquid. Melt butter over low heat, blend in flour and cook stirring until mixture is bubbly. Gradually add milk and 1/4 cup oyster liquid. Cook and stir until thickened. Add remaining ingredients except oysters. Simmer for 5 minutes. Add oysters. Serve on toast points. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Salmon Croquettes

One can (7 ounces) salmon, 1/2 cup cooked, mashed potatoes, 1 egg, beaten, 1 tablespoon fine, dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped pimento,

1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/4 cup fresh bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon snipped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 cup salmon liquid plus milk.

Makes 6 croquettes (3/4 cup each).

Fish Batter

1 lb. fish fillets (cod or halibut), 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk.

Use fish fillets not more than one-half inch thick and cut in serving-size pieces. If pieces of fish are thick but not thick enough to slice conveniently, make three or four slits in the side. This helps the fish to cook more evenly and quickly. Sprinkle each piece with salt. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs then add to milk. Make a well in the dry ingredients and slowly pour in mixed liquids stirring constantly until well blended. Dip pieces of fish until well coated. Fry in hot deep fat at 375°F. for about 5 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper and serve immediately.

United Church Thank Offering

"Giving Oneself" was the theme of the worship service given by Mrs. G. Haggard at the recent thank offering meeting held by the afternoon auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church. Mrs. W. J. McIntyre presided. Mrs. Lois Fraser was soloist.

Commissioner to the recent meeting of the general council of United Church of Canada in Edmonton, Mrs. K. P. Bradford of Duncan, gave an address stressing the need of all women of the United Church to be united in one federation.

Uplands group served tea with Mrs. S. Fairbanks in charge.

Lobster Waffles

Lobster waffles are a new taste treat to serve when you want a fancy but easy dish for a luncheon or an evening snack. To make four servings chop 1 cup of cooked or canned lobster meat and add to it 2 cups of waffle mix, prepared as directed. Bake in a waffle iron until brown and serve with pats of lemon butter.

Court Circular
Buckingham Palace, Oct. 18

The King of Nepal this morning at Buckingham Palace received High Commissioners for the Commonwealth Countries and the Ambassador for the Republic of Ireland.

The King and Queen of Nepal, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Nepal, later paid a state visit to the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the City of London at Guildhall.

Their Majesties were met at Guildhall by the Duke of Kent and were received by the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress and the Corporation, when the Lord Mayor presented an Address from the City of London.

Their Majesties and His Royal Highness were subsequently entertained at Luncheon by the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the City of London at Guildhall.

The Queen and The Duke of Edinburgh were this evening entertained at Dinner by The King and Queen of Nepal at the Royal Nepalese Embassy, Kensington Palace Gardens. Among those present were Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones, The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, The Princess Royal, The Duchess of Kent, The Duke of Kent, The Princess Alexandra of Kent.

Mr. Justice Fenton Atkinson had the honor of being received by Her Majesty this morning upon his appointment as a Justice of the High Court of Justice when The Queen conferred upon him the honor of Knighthood.

Sir Moore Crosthwaite (Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary at Beirut) had the honor of being received by The Queen when Her Majesty conferred upon him the honor of Knighthood, the dignity of a Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George.

The Right Hon. Harold Macmillan, M.P. (Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury) had an audience of The Queen this evening.

Kensington Palace, Oct. 18.

The Princess Margaret, President of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, this afternoon visited The William Baker Technical School, Hertford.

50 Years Married

An important occasion will be recalled next Wednesday when Capt. and Mrs. W. R. Roskelley celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with an Open House at their home 2566 Fifth Street, where their wedding reception was held on Oct. 26, 1910. The house was then the home of Mrs. Roskelley's parents. The couple were married in Christ Church Cathedral with the late Rev. William Barton officiating. Capt. Roskelley was born in Victoria, and as a boy played the organ in St. Mark's Church. Mrs. Roskelley is the former Winifred Taylor who came to Victoria in 1908 with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Roskelley have two children in Victoria; Capt. W. E. Roskelley, and Mrs. Gerald Sullivan (lace), eight grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Ruth MacLean Proved Woman Can Keep Secrets

By JAMES K. NESBITT

The Ruth McLean era has closed at Government House.

For 20 years, with the exception of a few in the late 1940s, Miss McLean was social secretary at the Lieutenant-Governor's residence.

A former newspaperwoman, she assisted four Government House mistresses—Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Mrs. Charles A. Banks, Mrs. Clarence Wallace and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross.

Miss McLean gave the lie to the common belief that no woman can hold her tongue, that always she must blab everything she knows, name-dropping and hinting at gossip and social blunders, and scandal in high places.

INSIDE DOPE

Ruth McLean, during those nearly 20 years, knew more inside dope, could have given more high-society buzzes than anyone else, but she wouldn't buzz which frustrated many people. If you tried to pump her about the goings-on of some prominent personage she'd of a sudden put on a dumb look, start talking about the birds, the bees and the pretty flowers and "how well you look, my dear."

As if she were never noticing a thing, Miss McLean, for two decades observed more important people at closer range than any other woman in British Columbia. She was Government House's main troubleshooter—a go-between whose job it was to protect her mistress as much as she could without hurting the feelings of a sensitive public, staying as much as possible in the background, her eye always on the foreground.

HAD TO KNOW

She had to know protocol—who should sit next to whom, and who above and below the salt. She had to know who wasn't speaking to whom, and keep such problem children of politics and society as far apart as possible, so there'd be no acrimonious altercations under the glittering chandeliers, or around the silverware board.

She was diplomat, comforter, chaperone, arbiter; it was up to her to find gentlemen, who were sometimes unwilling, to dance with wallflowers and dowagers; now and then she had to call a taxi for a guest who had no intention of departing long after the party was over, and do it so that he—or she—didn't realize what was happening—the heave-ho.

She had to keep an eye out to see that souvenir-hunters didn't walk off with spoons and priceless bric-a-brac, for this sort of thievery goes on even at Government House.

There are always people, in any strata of society, who consider a public institution fair game when it comes to pinching souvenirs, and the higher the place the better the souvenirs.

Ruth McLean had to be the embodiment of patience on a monument, listening to people complain about not being invited to Government House, when they had convinced themselves they should have been guest of honor. To them Miss McLean explained protocol and precedence, and, how, my dear, Government House simply isn't big enough for all the people the Lieutenant-Governor and his lady would like to invite all the time, especially that particular complainer. Miss McLean usually sent the complainer away happy—and hopeful.

DIPLOMACY

It was up to her to try and keep the bores from boring VIPs, without letting the bores know what she was up to. More than once she wound up with some bore drone on and on in her own ear.

ST. MARY'S

St. Mary's, Oak Bay, Men's Guild annual dinner will be held in the church hall, Yale Street Thursday, Oct. 27 at 6:30 p.m. Mr. G. C. Stevenson, former government inspector of Game Conservation and Wild Life in British Columbia, will speak.

Makeshift Hospital Court Saves Witnesses' Baby

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — An emergency court set up in an English maternity hospital saved the life of a day-old baby boy.

For 90 minutes the baby hovered near death. Only a complete change of blood could save him.

But the parents, both Jehovah's Witnesses, refused to allow a transfusion because it was against their religious beliefs.

TURN TO LAW

The doctors turned to the law.

A makeshift juvenile court was held in a room adjoining the maternity ward.

County welfare officer Florence Valentine sought legal custody of the baby on the ground that it was in danger of unnecessary suffering.

DEFECTIVE

A doctor testified that if the child did not get the transfusion and lived, it would be a mental defective.

The father — juvenile court rules forbid the publication of his name — still refused permission for life operation.

"My wife and I are dedicated servants of God, and the decisions we are making are on His word," he said. "If we take a course of action which might prolong life now, everlasting life will be cut off."

As the minutes ticked by, the father, a 30-year-old farmer, was asked if he would take the child into his home if the operation was performed.

It is believed to be the first time such action has been taken by a British court.

Thursday night, 24 hours later, the hospital reported:

"Everything is all right. The child's condition is satisfactory."

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partch

Many Belgians Return

Back to Congo Life

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Slowly but surely Belgians who fled the Congo during last summer's post-independence troubles are returning to pick up the pieces of their shattered lives.

During the second half of September, arrivals from Belgium exceeded departures for the first time since June.

GOING HOME

Almost daily, big airliners of Belgian-owned Sabena Airlines land at Leopoldville's N'Djili Airport, discharging men, women and children returning to their homes and businesses.

Many are school teachers and college and university professors. Some continue to Ruanda-Urundi, Belgian colony just east of the Congo which is approaching independence, and Elisabethville, capital of Katanga.

LOOTED, LEFT

Some are Belgian businessmen returning to firms that were abandoned and looted or left to trusted Congolese employees.

However, so far there are few government administrators, public-service technicians and professional men back in the Congo. These are the people the Congo needs most to get back on its feet.

SHOPS REOPEN

Some shops that were closed in August now are open for business and downtown Leopoldville is busier and noisier.

Some businessmen are liquidating their stocks and salvaging all they can before leaving a decade or more in the tropical good. Others say they definitely are staying.

MANY REASONS

There are many reasons why Belgians are returning.

"We have poured so much love and work into developing this country that we feel we must return," one Belgian said.

"We hate to see it go completely to ruin."

Others explained that after leaving a decade or more in the tropical Congo they find it hard to adapt themselves to life in Belgium with its cold winters.

Some have spent their entire working years in the Congo, are used to its way of life and don't fit in in Belgium.

The majority of Belgians here say that friends still in Belgium write that they hope to return, provided there is a small chance of finding safety and security.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Some Belgian businessmen returning to firms that were abandoned and looted or left to trusted Congolese employees.

However, so far there are few government administrators, public-service technicians and professional men back in the Congo. These are the people the Congo needs most to get back on its feet.

This is exactly what the Communists do to the church and it is a way of death.

No Judgment Day?

From a Christian point of view the greatest heresies are refusal of the truth and the belief that man can achieve goodness unaided, that "all children are born good," that God is a benevolent grandfather and that there is no judgment day.

Criticism is essential if the church is to escape its besetting sin of arrogance. It is also essential if we are to escape the fate of all institutions — building walls about ourselves in admiration and idolatry and losing all forward thrust.

The Christian church should tremble lest in any way we add to its bleak history of bitterness and persecution another loveless, inquisitorial chapter.

Modern Pharisees

Nothing is more destructive to the church today than remoteness from the problems of men. Consequently no preacher has more exposed the contemptible, superficial righteousness of modern pharisees than Albert Camus in The Fall, the social nature of sin than Franz Kafka in The Trial, the search for love that Graham Greene in The Heart of the Matter, the desperate search for reality and friendship than J. D. Salinger in The Catcher in the Rye, the tragedy of self-centred individualism than Sartre in No Exit, the horror of a Communist society than Dostoevsky in The Possessed, the boredom of society than Thomas Mann in The Magic Mountain, the sense of doom than Faulkner in The Sound and Fury.

Contemporary writers have given us much positive good. They have disclosed profound depths of human sin and social evil imbedded far down in the answers and rosy optimism subconscious and our easy are sheer blasphemy.

Pointless Vulgarity

Much that passes for realism in modern literature is dishonest, merely pointless vulgarity trying to shock the reader and sell the book. No one has a right to criticize without having tried to understand, and few modern novelists have read a single book on Christian doctrine or superficially studied church history.

People criticize Paul without having ever studied the "depth psychology" in Romans, the cosmic meaning of Christ in Colossians, the origins of human goodness in Galatians and the destiny of man in dunghill.

CARSTAIRS, Scotland — Prime Minister Macmillan and U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney, caught traveling without railway tickets were challenged by a ticket-taker here as they left the train for the nearby home of Lord Home, the foreign secretary. Macmillan began fumbling through his pockets for a gold medallion which entitles him to travel free on the government-operated trains. Then the stationmaster Edward Camlin recognized them and let them through.

Cuba Charges

Prestige Fight Ends Debates

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard Nixon and John Kennedy traded hard-hitting charges over Cuba Friday night in their fourth television debate.

Plants Have Tired Blood

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Sheriff James McCullough said Friday he can't find any law violation in using a stock of outdated blood for garden fertilizer.

An investigation was touched off when children playing around a house in nearby Eagleville discovered 516 pint bottles of blood. The sheriff said the blood had been brought home for his garden by a hospital employee after the blood became too old for use in transfusions.

Congo Help Belgians Defy Dag

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Belgium has rejected a demand by United Nations Secretary-General, Dag Hammarskjold that all direct Belgian aid to the Congo be discontinued and about 1,800 Belgian civilian technicians still working there be recalled, a government source said Friday.

The secretary-general insisted that all technical assistance to the Congo should come through the UN, which also would select technicians to be sent there.

Diefenbaker Hint

Soon Have Start Of Own Sub Fleet

MONTREAL (UPI) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker last night ruled out the possibility of Canada acquiring a nuclear submarine but indicated that this country might soon have the beginnings of a submarine fleet.

Diefenbaker told the joint convention of Navy Leagues that Canada's present reliance on other navies for submarines "cannot continue indefinitely."

NIKITA'S BOAST

He referred to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's boast yesterday that Russia had nuclear-powered missile-firing subs and said they presented a threat to North America equally as great as the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"The question of providing needed submarines for the Canadian navy must receive consideration," he said. "While the ideal submarine for offensive and defensive purposes is the nuclear submarine, its extremely high cost is beyond the reach of Canada."

TRAINING SUB

Canada recently acquired a submarine from the United States navy for the training of sailors on the west coast. Royal Navy submarines are used for training purposes by the Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic command.

U.K. Navy Gets A-Sub

BARROW-IN-FURNESS (Reuters) — The Royal Navy entered the nuclear age Friday as Queen Elizabeth II launched Dreadnought, Britain's first atomic-powered submarine.

The launching of the 3,500-ton vessel, equipped with a U.S. engine, was staged on Trafalgar Day, the 155th anniversary of Nelson's victory over Napoleon.

Apart from That Everything's Fine

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Not everyone was pleased with the resurfacing of State Street, a major artery leading from Pennsylvania's capitol to Harrisburg's eastern suburbs.

City officials complained that a state highway department crew paved right over manhole covers and water valve boxes.

Regimental Bands

Everyone Thrilled— By 8.40 on the Dot

By IAN STREET

The 150 waited just 10 minutes.

Then, as the last of the 5,033 patrons slipped into their seats in Memorial Arena last night, the lights went out, the spotlight picked out three trumpeters as the first brazen notes rang out.

Scarlet-coated guardsmen in roof-scraping bearskins stiffened to attention and the order was given: In, then to march onto the floor of the arena, treated with a thick layer of sawdust frozen to the ice surface to give them a firm footing.

WAVE UPON WAVE

Wave upon wave of applause greeted the regimental band of the Coldstream Guards as they made their entrance, followed a few minutes later by the skirling pipes and drums of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, 150 in all.

It was a superb show of pageantry, such as only the British can stage. The packed arena responded generously.

It was a show Victoria almost missed.

The company manager grabbed Mr. Dukowski by the arm and said fervently, "The orchestra is happy, believe me. They're thrilled by your c agent to pay a guarantee rather than the usual percentage. As it turned out no one was the loser with last night's capacity crowd.

A few minutes after the scheduled 8.30 starting time, he was standing with arena manager Joe Dukowski watching latecomers packed in the foyer and edging up the stairs to their seats.

A worried little man, the company's American manager, hustled up to them. He was followed by a chap in civvies with an unmistakable military bearing, who said in clipped tones: "We'll start at 8.40 on the dot."

JAMMED SOLID

"We've got to keep the orchestra happy," the company manager said. "They have been waiting already for 10 minutes."

"Surely it's more important to keep the customers happy," said Mr. Dukowski. "Every entrant is jammed solid. We'll have to wait . . ."

"8.40," said the military man and left.

The company manager grabbed Mr. Dukowski by the arm and said fervently, "The orchestra is happy, believe me. They're thrilled by your c

They don't mind waiting 10 minutes."

At 8.40, just 10 minutes late, the show began.

Czechs Refuse to Pay 'Dirty' Costs in Congo

Malahat

25 Flee Fire On Bus

Some 25 passengers and their luggage were hurriedly evacuated from a Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus on the Malahat last night when a short circuit ignited diesel fuel. The fire broke out about 6.30 p.m. on top of Cousin's Hill, near the top of the Malahat. Little damage was caused to the bus and no injuries were suffered by passengers or driver Carl Allison.

Twin's Pains Win Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A twin who says he hurt when his sister hurts testified for her Friday at a divorce hearing.

Philip Fellick, 22, told Judge George Dockweiler he often was affected by the cruelty Mrs. Phyllis Blittner said was inflicted on her by her husband, Paul Blittner, 27.

Testifying about bruises he had seen on her body, Fellick was asked: "Did this hurt you too?"

"It certainly did," answered Fellick.

Mrs. Blittner won the divorce by default.

Whole Soviet Bloc May Balk at Bill

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Czechoslovakia said yesterday it will refuse to help pay the "dirty" costs of the UN Congo operation and the United States warned that if the rest of the Soviet bloc does the same, as expected, it could wreck the United Nations.

The Czech action indicated a nine-nation Communist payment boycott was in the making. Czech delegate Miroslav Navlak charged that UN money was being spent on "imperialist stooges" for the suppression of the legitimate government" of pro-Russian Patriarch Lumumba who was deposed as premier.

A Romanian delegate said he agreed with the Czech "assessment" of the situation.

MOST DEPLORABLE

U.S. delegate Albert Bender said the Czech statement was "one of the most deplorable" ever made in the UN.

Bender said the Czech delegate "insulted" the United Nations, particularly the majority which voted to send a peace force to the Congo.

The Communist bloc's threat of a payment boycott "may be considered to have the goal of the total destruction of the United Nations," Bender said.

SORDID AFFAIR

Czechoslovakia, whose diplomats were ousted from the Congo with the Russians by strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu, held the UN Congo action to be a sordid affair and the Czech delegate washed his hands of it.

A formal Soviet statement issued later in the day charged that the UN force had "abolished" the directives of the security council and warned that the situation in the Congo "is ever more worsening."

GROWING SCALE

The statement claimed there were "more and more reports that the return of an ever-growing scale of the Belgian colonialists and the arrival of the representatives of the Western powers under the UN flag is taking place in the Congo."

The statement did not say directly whether Russia would refuse to help pay the Congo bill, but observers believed it was designed to pave the way for announcement of such a stand.

Plane Kills Moose, Calf

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — An Orient-bound airline with 33 aboard hit a cow moose and her calf while coming in to the Anchorage International Airport Friday morning. The plane landed safely. The animals were killed.

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Canadian canneries are being bought out by American interests and then left idle, an International Woodworkers of America official charged here.

The spokesman told the Kamloops Labor Council that "if you look on the shelves of stores at tins of fruit for growers, and you see one out of 20 is grown in British Columbia, then you're doing a lot better than I am."

Bonn Meeting Ejects Shouting Red Envoy

BONN (Reuters) — Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov was ejected yesterday from a meeting of the German-Africa Society after he tried to shout down Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard during an anti-Communist speech.

West German Federal Affairs Minister Hans Joachim von Merkatz later saw Smirnov and expressed official regret over the incident, according to a Russian Embassy spokesman.

NO BREAK

The Russian spokesman said von Merkatz expressed the hope the incident would not lead to a break in relations between the two countries.

The tall, greying ambassador jumped from his front seat in the Beethoven Hall here to shout at Erhard. He complained that the Germans "speak about freedom but they annihilated 20,000 Soviet people."

The burly economic minister called from the platform: "I have not come to talk to you but with our African friends."

representatives of about 20 African countries present at the meeting to launch West Germany's first Africa week.

The ambassador was ejected by an attendant.

Red Readings Drove Wife to Desertion

LONDON (Reuters) — A divorce judge Friday rejected a cruelty petition from a woman who claimed her husband kept her awake at night reading the Communist newspaper The Daily Worker aloud to her.

"It is possible he was something of a bore, but boredom has not yet been recognized as a ground for divorce," the judge said.

But he granted a decree nisi—effective three months from now—to husband Leslie Tanner on grounds of desertion. Wife Sheila left him five years ago.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

B.C. Lions, the odds-makers are saying, are going to be out of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union playdowns at about 10:45 this evening. There are few who believe the Lions are good enough to handle Calgary's vastly-improved Stampeders in this all-or-nothing game.

If this is to be true, and the chances are that it will be, it means a serious setback for the Lions, who made the play-downs for the first time last season after wasting several seasons and tens of thousands of dollars trying to be good enough too soon.

The story of the Lions is a story of frustration. They have had ample time to make their big bank-roll count for more than it has, should by now be more of a power than they are. Because of the money they have had to spend, their planning has too often been geared to the present rather than to the slow, sure building which is necessary for a new club.

It couldn't have been reasonably expected that the Lions would be able to make any serious challenge in their early years. Edmonton Eskimos had a dynasty going then and Winnipeg Blue Bombers were building up to one. But with the wealth they were able to command because of exceptional fan support, the Lions by now should have moved in on the Eskimos and be not too far away from the Bombers.

League standings show, however, that the Lions are not even close to Edmonton, slowly fading out the past two or three seasons, and that the Bombers are out of their sight. After tonight, they could also show that the Lions are no better than the fourth best club in the WIFU, unable to win more than a third of their games in a season when there was no outstanding improvement made by their opposition.

All that can salvage this season for the Lions now would be a win tonight, another one next Saturday against Saskatchewan and then victory in the WIFU semi-finals. It's a most disappointing turn of events with so much more having been expected after Wayne Robinson's first season as coach finally brought that playoff spot.

Why the Lions haven't done better is a question which brings many answers. One hears in Vancouver from those who have covered the club for years that a big factor has been what they call Robinson's immaturity as a head coach.

It is said he hasn't made the most of his obvious talents because he has insisted on trying to tailor his players to his game instead of making the best of use of their various abilities. Robinson has, these observers say, judged too often on personal feelings without any consideration for the feelings of his players. This, it is claimed, has not only resulted in the lack of any real club spirit but has also cost the Lions the services of several players—Bill Jessup, Ed Vereb and Don Lord are three who were named—because they figured it just wasn't worth it to carry on in what is probably Canadian football's most-demanding regimen.

One could also point to the failure to find a quarterback of better than average ability and some unfortunate injuries but the above seems to make sense.

But while it seems that the Lions have at best marked time this season, there is also good reason to believe they are slowly coming up. They have won only four of 14 games but in many of their performances against the league's best one could easily find enough good to say they are only four or five players away from being close. If they can keep the best of what they have it shouldn't be too much longer.

On the plus side, the Lions have in Willie Fleming probably the best halfback in Canadian football. This season brought them in Nute Beamer, a rocking fullback who ranks with the best, and while Jim Walden has yet to prove he is the answer at quarterback, at least he has shown more potential than Randy Duncan.

There has been an even more notable gain in the Lions' still somewhat thin line of Canadian talent. Huge Mike Cade, only 23, has become one of the best Canadian tackles; 21-year-old Jim Carpin shows real promise as an end; Robinson has in Roy Cameron and Neil Beaumont, both 19, two real prospects in the defence backfield; 22-year-old Vern Loftstrom, out much of the season with injuries, is going to be a fine fullback, and Bruce Claridge has developed into a solid defensive player.

Each season now will bring the Lions one or more Canadians who have been gaining experience at American schools, such as Pat Claridge, star end for University of Washington, and Robinson is bound to discover that football players are people. The Lions should be ready for something serious in 1962, could take over by 1963. It isn't as bad as it might look.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Calgary Stampeders in that big one tonight, and Edmonton, Hamilton and Toronto in today's other football. In hockey, Winnipeg, Seattle and Calgary in the WHL and Montreal and Toronto in the NHL. Batting average to date: At bat 150, hits 111, percentage .740.

that when the meet was over coach Gary Taylor was considering splitting up his team next year to make the competition closer.

"This is the best overall team we have ever had," Taylor said, and none of the 1,200 screaming students who jammed the Garden could argue with him. When the 16 events were over, Oak Bay had 76 points, Esquimalt was second with 16, and Belmont third with 14.

"We've got the edge because most of our team competes in the city clubs and swims all year round," he added.

"Kids in the other schools swim for three months, and the last four also took part in the relay events. Ricky Todd (OB) is one of the boys' team all but its events, the boys' team all but its.

Dead in Car

COCOMO — Body of an RCAF sergeant was found in his car near the air force station Friday and an investigation into the cause of death is continuing.

He was identified as Sgt. William Arnold Moncrief, 47, of Comox. A search was begun Thursday when he failed to report for work. His wife and four children survive.

TV Set Erupts In Ball of Fire

DUNCAN — A mother with her year-old baby clutched in her arms fled her Cowichan Bay cottage yesterday afternoon after her television set burst into flames.

Mrs. Denny Beaveridge, wife of a 24-year-old school teacher, thanked two volunteer firemen for saving most of their belongings. Damage to the cottage was estimated at $2,000.

MAKING BEDS

"I had been in the front room watching a show, but went into the bedroom to make beds," Mrs. Beaveridge explained yesterday while volunteers helped her clear belongings from the charred house.

"I looked into the front room when I heard this crackling and saw the television set was ball of flames. The curtains were on fire and the roof, too," she said.

Mrs. Beaveridge wrapped her baby, D'Arcy, in a blanket and fled after reporting the fire to the telephone operator.

FEW MINUTES

"The firemen were wonderful," she said. "It was just a few minutes before they got here. The house looked as though it was all flames then."

The home is one of six built close together on stilts on the beach.

"We had it out with 10 gallons of water," said Fire Chief Gar Robinson.

Clams Open To Indians

Commercial clam digging will be allowed from Nanaimo north to Denman Island throughout the winter to aid Indians who have suffered from a poor fishing year.

Social Credit MLA Dan Campbell of Comox requested the move after an appeal by Indians in his riding.

The red-tide ban will come off the area next week and digging may then commence. Mr. Campbell said it would mean work for 30 to 40 Indians.

Stole Car

Police Seek Hit-Run Joyriders

DUNCAN — Police are seeking four joyriding teen-agers who stole a car and fled after ramming into another vehicle.

The cars came to a grinding halt with brakes screeching on Lake Cowichan Road, three miles west of here, with the stolen car hitting the other. Mahinder Singh of Duncan said the four occupants of the other car, two girls and two boys, "scattered like rabbits" immediately after the impact.

Police Sgt. T. C. Fraser said it appeared the fleeing car was in the accident shortly after it was reported stolen from Mrs. C. H. Williams, 730 Jubilee.

Mr. Singh said damage to his car is estimated at $250. The stolen car received about $100 damage.

Occupants of the stolen car were between 16 and 18 years old, said Mr. Singh, and vanished into heavy underbrush.

Injured Woman Lies in Wreck Five Hours Awaiting Rescue

Truck Driver Discovers Car Over Embankment

LADYSMITH — A seriously injured 36-year-old Ladysmith woman lay semi-conscious on the seat of her battered car for nearly five hours early yesterday before a passing trucker realized there had been an accident and came to her aid.

In only fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria last night was Mrs. A. E. Stubbington, a mother of four, whose late model sedan was wrecked after it crashed into a bridge abutment a short distance north of here.

Mrs. Stubbington is reported suffering from severe internal injuries, a fractured leg and a broken pelvis.

Her body was slumped across the front seat of the car when she was found and she was conscious, but unable to reach the horn of summon help.

FIVE HOURS

Police believe she lay helpless in the torn vehicle from shortly after midnight to nearly 6 a.m.

Among the first on the scene after the crash was discovered by an alert but so-far-unidentified produce-truck driver was Mrs. Margaret Simila.

TERRIBLE PAIN

"I talked to her and all she was concerned with were the car and her family," Mrs. Simila said later. "She must have been in terrible pain."

At one point Mrs. Simila heard the injured woman say, "poor Ed, he'll be so upset about his car."

HIT ATBUTMENT

Police said Mrs. Stubbington was driving north when her car apparently swerved across the Trans-Canada Highway, struck the bridge abutment and slid down an embankment.

They said there was no indication of the cause of the accident.

Mrs. Stubbington was first rushed to Ladysmith General Hospital and later brought to Victoria.

Magistrate Muffles Truck Noise

NANAIMO — Noisy trucks are not going to be tolerated here.

Two truck drivers appeared in Nanaimo police court charged with driving vehicles without mufflers and were fined $10 each.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts warned that loud motors will not be tolerated and said he will levy heavier fines next time.

Truck Jack-Knifes Into Car, Two Hurt

NANAIMO — A mother and her daughter were pushed to the George Pearson Bridge.

The truck, a vehicle operated by West Coast Freight, hit the crest of the bridge and the trailer apparently started to jackknife. Driver J. H. Hackwood of Departure Bay Road tried to pull the trailer in but it swung out and smashed into the Robinson vehicle knocking it against the curb.

Damage is estimated at between $1,000 and $1,500.

Tow Truck Hit On Sooke Road, Brothers Crushed

Crushed between a tow-truck and another vehicle, two Colwood brothers were killed early yesterday in an accident on the Sooke Road in Dewdney Flats.

Jack LeRoy Cameron, 32, 2233 Sooke Road, died instantly; his brother Tom, 34, lived only long enough to ask about his brother.

William John Stewart, 47, of Kemp Lake Road, Sooke, was charged in Colwood court yesterday afternoon with causing the death of the two men by criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

He was remanded for a preliminary hearing, date for which has not yet been set.

Stewart's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, 47, suffered head injuries in the crash, and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where her condition yesterday was "fairly good."

Jack, married and father of three children, was manager of a new service station on Sooke Road. Tom, also married and with four children, was an independent logger who worked with his brother on a part-time basis.

FORCED TO DITCH

Police said Gerald Van Humebeck of Sooke had been driving homeward when he said he was forced into a ditch by bright headlights of an approaching car at the Dewdney flats.

A few minutes later his friend Tom Cameron came by, driving his own car. He called his brother to bring out the tow truck and the Camerons pulled the car from the ditch.

HIT TRUCK

While the Cameron brothers were kneeling between the two vehicles as they couched them together for the tow, the Stewart car glanced off the front of Tom Cameron's car, then crashed into the front of the truck.

The heavy truck was driven backward, pinning the brothers between it and the other car.

LOOK OUT

Van Humebeck said later he saw the other car coming, and had time only to yell "Look out!" and jump himself, when it struck. Going to the Camerons, he saw that Jack was dead, and heard Tom ask "How's my brother?" before collapsing.

The Camerons, both born in Saskatoon, had spent some years in the Peace River district of Alberta before coming to Victoria during the war years. Tom served in the army.

PARENTS, BROTHER

They are survived by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William LeRoy Cameron, 669 Kelly; one brother, Harry, 3134 McEwan and three sisters: Mrs. Arthur O. Ramsfield (Jean), 72 Crease; Mrs. C. Arnold Ramsfield (Monty), 724 Kelly; Miss Kathlene Cameron in Portland, Ore.

Jack is survived by his widow, Shirley, and three children: Terry, 8; Debra, 6 and Russell, 2. Surviving Tom are his widow Nora, and four children: Carol, 11; Jody, 9; Mark, 5, and Melanie, 3.

First Aid Class Set

A special morning class in first aid will be held at St. John Ambulance headquarters, 941 Pandora, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Thursday.

There hasn't been even a whisper of a suggestion that any Victoria firm is coercing employees into donating to the Community Chest, a labor official said yesterday.

Vancouver Labor Council has ordered an investigation into a claim that four companies there have made contribution to the Chest a condition of employment.

Prestige Fight Ends Debates

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard Nixon and John Kennedy traded hard-hitting charges over Cuba Friday night in their fourth television debate.

Plants Have Tired Blood

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Sheriff James McCullough said Friday he can't find any law violation in using a stock of outdated blood for garden fertilizer.

An investigation was touched off when children playing around a house in nearby Ragleville discovered 516 pint bottles of blood. The sheriff said the blood had been brought home for his garden by a hospital employee after the blood became too old for use in transfusions.

Congo Help

Belgians Defy Dag

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Belgium has rejected a demand by United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that all direct Belgian aid to the Congo be discontinued and about 1,800 Belgian civilian technicians still working there be recalled, a government source said Friday.

The secretary-general insisted that all technical assistance to the Congo should come through the UN, which also would select technicians to be sent there.

Diefenbaker Hint

Soon Have Start Of Own Sub Fleet

MONTREAL (UPI) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker last night ruled out the possibility of Canada acquiring a nuclear submarine but indicated that this country might soon have the beginnings of a submarine fleet.

Diefenbaker told the joint convention of Navy Leagues that Canada's present reliance on other navies for submarines "cannot continue indefinitely."

NIKITA'S BOAST

He referred to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's boast yesterday that Russia had nuclear-powered missile-firing subs and said they presented a threat to North America equally as great as the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"The question of providing needed submarines for the Canadian navy must receive consideration," he said. "While the ideal submarine for offensive and defensive purposes is the nuclear submarine, its extremely high cost is beyond the reach of Canada."

TRAINING SUB

Canada recently acquired a submarine from the United States navy for the training of sailors on the west coast. Royal Navy submarines are used for training purposes by the Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic command.

U.K. Navy Gets A-Sub

BARRROW IN FURNESS (Reuters) — The Royal Navy entered the nuclear age Friday as Queen Elizabeth II launched Dreadnought, Britain's first atomic-powered submarine.

The launching of the 3,500-ton vessel equipped with a U.S. engine, was staged on Trafalgar Day, the 155th anniversary of Nelson's victory over Napoleon.

Apart from That Everything's Fine

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Not everyone was pleased with the resurfacing of State Street, a major artery leading from Pennsylvania's capitol to Harrisburg's eastern suburbs.

City officials complained that a state highway department crew paved right over manhole covers and water valve boxes.

JUST AS HIGH

Nixon shot back that America's prestige will be "just as high as spokesmen for America allow it to be."

Kennedy replied: "I don't need Mr. Nixon to tell me what my responsibilities are as a citizen. I downgrade the leadership the country is getting—not the country."

agent to pay a guarantee. They don't mind waiting 10 minutes." At 8:40, just 10 minutes late, the show began.

A few minutes after the scheduled 8:30 starting time, he was standing with arena manager Joe Dukowski watching latecomers packed in the foyer and edging up the stairs to their seats.

A worried little man, the company's American manager, hustled up to them. He was followed by a chap in civvies with an unmistakable military bearing, who said in clipped tones: "We'll start at 8:40 on the dot."

"We've got to keep the orchestra happy," the company manager said. "They have been waiting already for 10 minutes."

"Surely it's more important to keep the customers happy," said Mr. Dukowski. "Every entrance is jammed solid. We'll have to wait . . ."

"8:40," said the military man and left.

The company manager grabbed Mr. Dukowski by the arm and said fervently: "The orchestra is happy, believe me. They're thrilled by your city."

Regimental Bands

Everyone Thrilled—By 8:40 on the Dot

The 150 waited just 10 minutes.

Then, as the last of the 5,033 patrons slipped into their seats in Memorial Arena last night the lights went out, the spotlight picked out three trumpeters as the first brazen notes rang out.

Scarlet-coated guardsmen in roof-scraping bearskins stiffened to attention and the order was given for them to march onto the floor of the arena, treated with a thick layer of sawdust frozen into the ice surface to give them a firm footing.

WAVE UPON WAVE

Wave upon wave of applause greeted the regimental band of the Coldstream Guards as they made their entrance, followed a few minutes later by the skirling pipes and drums of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, 150 in all.

It was a superb show of pageantry, such as only the British can stage. The packed arena responded generously. It was a show Victoria almost missed.

Hugh Pickett, of Famous Artists, Vancouver, said to get the bands to come here it was necessary for the booking agent to pay a guarantee. They don't mind waiting 10 minutes."

At 8:40, just 10 minutes late, the show began.

The Famous Artists spokesman said the show was the biggest draw his agency had ever booked here.

RED REFUSAL TO RUIN UN?

Czechs Reject 'Dirty' Costs

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Czechoslovakia said yesterday it will refuse to help pay the "dirty" costs of the UN Congo operation and the United States warned that if the rest of the Soviet bloc does the same, as expected, it could wreck the United Nations.

The Czech action indicated a nine-nation Communist payment boycott was in the making. Czech delegate Miroslav Navrkal charged that UN money was being spent on "imperialist stooges for the suppression of the legitimate government" of pro-Russian Patrice Lumumba who was deposed as premier.

Philip Fellick, 22, told Judge George Dockweiler he often was affected by the cruelty Mrs. Phyllis Blittner said was inflicted on her by her husband, Paul Blittner, 27.

Testifying about bruises he'd seen on her body, Fellick was asked: "Did this hurt you too?"

"It certainly did," answered Fellick.

Mrs. Blittner won the divorce by default.

Trailer Builder Loses Heavily In Langford Fire

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Blue Bonnet Coach Manufacturing Co. Ltd. building, 2515 Selwyn Road, Langford, about 9:10 p.m. yesterday.

The three-storey wooden frame building and its contents—mainly trailer parts and jigs and tools for the manufacture of trailers—were a total loss.

TRUCKS SAVED

Flames and three explosions in the building at the corner of Selwyn and the Trans-Canada Highway drew a number of spectators who saw Langford volunteer fire department damp down the fire and save several old trucks parked nearby.

Owner William Hauptfleisch, also proprietor of Hi-Lo Trailer Sales at Millstream Road and the highway, said he could give no estimate of the loss, which was partly insured.

ECONOMY DRIVE

"We just reduced our insurance by $9,500, three months ago," he said. "We got an economy streak on—darn near cancelled it out completely."

Totally destroyed were a new Mercury tilt-cab truck and a partly-completed building which was to have been moved up to the Hi-Lo Trailer Sales site to serve as a grocery store.

Mr. Hauptfleisch had been custom-building trailers at the site for a year.

By a trick of chance, a trailer full of furniture belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Don Blundell escaped.

It was on Mr. Hauptfleisch's lot awaiting arrival of some imported windows from the Victoria customs warehouse. If customs officials had got the windows through faster the trailer would have been moved into the burned building.

"I was working there today," Mr. Hauptfleisch said. "The last thing I was doing was putting some wheel wells on my truck."

"We were back home watching TV when I heard sirens. I didn't pay much attention until I heard some explosions. I went over there, and I could see what seemed to be a little fire. A moment later she was all ablaze."

The statement claimed there were "more and more reports that the return of an ever-growing scale of the Belgian colonialists and the arrival of the Western powers under the UN flag is taking place in the Congo."

The statement did not say directly whether Russia would refuse to help pay the Congo.

Dope Hidden In Toy Crate

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A $5,000,000 shipment of 22 pounds of heroin, hidden in a crate of toys, was seized Friday shortly after it was unloaded from the Italian liner Sartoria.

Two men who picked up the illegal cargo were arrested.

Red Readings Drove Wife to Desertion

LONDON (Reuters) — A divorce judge Friday rejected a cruelty petition from a woman who claimed her husband kept her awake at night reading the Communist newspaper The Daily Worker aloud to her.

"It is possible he was something of a bore, but boredom has not yet been recognized as a ground for divorce," the judge said.

But he granted a decree nisi—effective three months from now—to husband Leslie Tanner on grounds of desertion. Wife Sheila left him five years ago.

Astronauts Space-Bound Next Year, U.S. Says

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP) — The American project Mercury astronauts are scheduled to make their first flights in a rocket early in 1961, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Friday.

The first flights will be made using a Redstone missile booster, the NASA said. In the Redstone flights, the astronauts will not go into orbit. They will be shot into the atmosphere, however, coming down at sea.
